We want to hear from you! You will soon be receiving an email from Tom McNally, Dean of Libraries, with a link to an important faculty survey. This survey focuses on research, teaching, and publishing, and it seeks your perspective on a range of topics, including how you engage with and perceive the library. In particular, the survey will help the library gain insight into how our faculty members work in a rapidly changing and increasingly digital environment.

We hope you will take a few minutes from your busy schedule to assist us!

Journal of Chinese Linguistics

An academic journal produced mainly in English, this resource comprises research content from both general linguistics and Chinese linguistics (Languages in China). JCL articles published since 1973 covered many linguistic sub-disciplines of the languages in China. The authors explore a variety of general linguistic areas such as phonetics, phonology, morphology, syntax, semantics, and pragmatics. It is indexed in Social Science Citation Index and eight other databases and indexes. Click here to access.
