I've written a song entitled translated. Here's a link to a site where the song can be downloaded or streamed.

http://www.box.net/shared/70qyil09ol

Below are the lyrics.

When I called to you
From a crowded room
Didn't know just how to articulate
The fear that my words would never be heard.
I said to God
Please let the solitude stop
Don't let the moon steal the sun's sky soon.
Let the morning come.
Just let the morning come.

Several days ago, on a beach filled with snow I spent an afternoon with a head full of All the things that I liked and loved.
And your beauty came, as though etched on a window pane In an unknown tongue Hung in a cathedral I had built for you Built only for you.

This place is set apart
In the deepest recesses of my heart

When no one else is true,
These steeple bells ring out for you.

You've come across
You've come across